

Abstract of the Disclosur

A system and method for generating multilevel coded optical signals for optical transmission are disclosed. The method comprises driving modulators with synchronous data signals having the same data rate to generate a multilevel optical

5 signal using differential phase shift keying and amplitude shift keying modulation.